Dr. Smith Backs Plan For Board

By LLOYD D. LEWIS
Editor-In-Chief

President Stewart H. Smith said yesterday the plans outlined recently by the State Committee on Higher Education "would help Marshall advance by having a board of governors who could devote their entire time and effort to this University."

The committee late last week drew up guide-lines to make a complete overhaul of West Virginia's educational system. The plan includes a nine-member board to administer Marshall.

"One of the big advantages is that more people would become aware of problems and needs of higher education by having more people serve on governing boards," Dr. Smith explained.

He added that a board of governors at Marshall would provide more time for him to discuss University progress and problems. Dr. Smith pointed out that only seven states have no coordinating boards for higher education.

Proposals outlined were to reduce the State Board of Education to governing elementary and secondary schools and a nine-member board of governors for the eight state colleges.

The committee advises that the existing board of governors for West Virginia University and Potomac State College be retained.

President Smith explained that three bills are now before the state legislature concerning higher education in West Virginia. One would establish an 11-member Board of Regents to develop all higher education and be headed by a chancellor and his staff.

Another would provide for the Marshall Board of Governors, which the Higher Education Committee has endorsed. And the third would establish the Board of Governors for the other state colleges.

Philosophy Section Has Been Opened

A section of philosophy 201 has been opened for students who want to take philosophy 412-512, "Philosophy of History." The new class, section 1308, is scheduled for Wednesday evenings, according to Dr. John C. Plott, professor of philosophy.

The course will familiarize students with terminology and types of philosophy. The class will concentrate on the philosophy of history, but will also study ethics and comparative (East-West) philosophies. A study of aesthetics and the philosophy of religion, which are closely related to most philosophies of history, will be included in the course.

The class will consist basically of panel discussions and open forums. Only a few openings remain!

HOME EC MEET

The annual supervising conference of the Home Economics Department will be held from 9 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. tomorrow in Room 114 at Northcott Hall.

Scholarship Winners Announced

Coeds Housing Rules Revised

By MARTHA HILL
Assistant Society Editor

A committee of Marshall women from the newly established Brereton C. Jones' Buildings recently met with James R. Vander Lind, associate dean of students, to negotiate rules for their off campus living quarters.

The 81 women living in the Marshall House and the Jones' Building signed their contracts last year under the impression that, although the apartments were approved by the administration, they would be under no university rules or restrictions.

After moving in earlier this month, rules similar to those followed in the women's dorms on campus were posted for the residents to follow. Not completely approving these, the women sent Roberta Cantor, Rego Park, N. Y. junior and Susan King, Charleston junior along with Mrs. Kenneth Fisher, residence director and Counselor Louise Francois, Huntington senior, to submit a revised slate of rules calling for later hours and extended time for visitors. Also president at the meeting with Dean Vander Lind was Brereton C. Jones, building contractor and owner of the buildings.

The following rules were decided upon: (1) Closing hours Monday through Thursday will be 11 p.m. (2) Closing hours Friday and Saturday will be 1:30 a.m. (3) Visiting hours will be as listed: Monday through Thursday, 4-9 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 4-12 p.m.; and on Sunday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

ALPHA XI DELTA was awarded the scholarship trophy for having the highest average of any sorority for second semester of 1966. Admiring the new trophy are Jane Woodburn (left), Wheeling senior and Janey Baer, Huntington junior. Delta Zeta was second place winner.

Pep Rally Site, Time Changed

A snakedance will highlight the first Pep Rally of the 1966 season this afternoon at 4 p.m. in front of the Student Union.

Originally scheduled for 7 p.m. tonight, the time was changed in order to have the football team in uniform.

This rally, sponsored by the Robe, men's leadership and brotherhood honorary, is to boost the home game spirit for the game between Marshall and Eastern Kentucky at Fairfield Stadium at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

In addition to the appearance of the football team and coaches, there will be the cheerleaders, majorettes and band.

Freshmen Will Vote On Oct. 12

Filing Deadline Will Be Oct. 5

By BECKY FLETCHER
Staff Reporter

General elections for freshman class president and senators will be held Oct. 12, according to Nancy Hickman, St. Albans senior and executive secretary for Student Government.

Candidates will file for office Oct. 3, 4, and 5 in the Student Government office. Registration fees will be paid at this time. Those seeking senatorial positions will be charged $2; presidential candidates will pay a fee of $3. To qualify, the student must be a full-time student who is not on academic probation.

Lecture On Rules

Orientation sessions for registered candidates will be Oct. 5 and 6. The purpose of these lectures is to acquaint candidates with election rules, parliamentary procedure, and student government on campus.

The material covered in these sessions will be the basis for the Student Government Qualification Test, which will be administered to all candidates October 7. While there is no cut off or failing point, scores will be important, as they will be posted on the Student Government office door.

Limit On Expenses

Candidates are also required to keep an account of all election receipts and expenses. This list will be turned into the Student Government office on the day of the general election. Election rules limit a candidate to $25 for the campaign.

Freshmen campaigning will officially begin October 9 at 2 p.m. At this time, candidates' signs will go up. Prior to this, only voice campaigning is legal.

In the general election, October 12, freshmen will elect five senators, and their class president. The senatorial candidate who receives the highest number of votes will automatically become vice president of the freshman class.

Additional information concerning election procedure and rules may be obtained from Ann DeBussey, Parkersburg sophomore, election co-ordinator.

Former Instructor Is OU Librarian

A former Marshall library science instructor has been appointed librarian for the Ohio University branch at Chillicothe, Ohio.

Ohio University President Vernon R. Alden announced the appointment of Miss Henrietta Greaver last Monday.

Miss Greaver received her A.B. and M.A. degrees here at Marshall, and later earned the M.S. degree in library science at the University of Kentucky.

She is a former librarian in the West Virginia public schools, and last year was librarian for Seaford High School, Long Island, N. Y.

Dr. Smith Looks At Social Issues

Dangers Of Alcohol Use Discussed

(Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of discussions by President Stewart H. Smith on social issues facing college students.)

By PRESIDENT STEWART H. SMITH

Not long ago a writer, Marjorie King, summed up the dilemmas of young people in modern society in this way:

"Adolescence is a time of great idealism and a time when young people are developing their own philosophy. The evident conflict between what the adult teaches and what the adult does surely does not help the adolescent. We preach the value of honesty and cooperation, yet we practice cut-throat competition in business and boast of cheating on our income tax. We educate about the dangers of alcohol and smoking in a society that is spending millions to advertise these products. We exhort youth to study longer and harder in a society that strikes for shorter working hours and strives increasingly for leisure time that we don't know how to use. When we add to these obstacles the fact that all this is going on at a time of great physical and psychological change and turmoil, we can hardly wonder that the teenager is plagued with doubts about the kind of person he will become. The question should not be why do some adolescents have problems, but rather how is it that some do not."

Alcoholism is a problem on any campus as it is in society as a whole. It is here to stay and we can't talk it out of existence or legislate it out of existence. Rather, we must accept the fact that people drink.

Many students come from homes where drinking is a part of the family's way of life and many students have imbibed by the time they reach college. Yet some of these same parents who have had difficulty controlling their children send them to college fully expecting us to control them.

In addition, universities often are faced with other ambiguities. Many states have state-controlled license beverage outlets and insist that part of the profits go to teach young people about the evils of drinking. Some states have laws prohibiting the sale of liquor by the drink but, at the same time, tolerate so-called "bottle clubs" which can dispense liquor by the drink. Some states permit the sale of liquor to young people age 18 while others restrict it to those over 21.

As with students, the university is caught up in legal and social ambiguities. On the one hand we are expected to place restrictions on our students for their own good and the good of society; on the other hand we are often accused of denying them opportunities of greater freedom and self-reliance. What should we do?

I think it is incumbent upon us at this stage in the lives of college students to inform them of the harmful effects of the use, especially the excessive use, of alcohol on their health, their future lives and their success at the university. In doing so we may be accused of being out of step with the times. Yet the evidence is overwhelming that alcoholism is steadily rising in our country and elsewhere. Ten per cent of the population are alcohol dependent and five per cent are alcoholics. Regular use of only a little alcohol can produce alcohol dependency since it is not the amount of alcohol consumed that is the determining factor. Anyone who takes only one or two drinks regularly may be headed for trouble.

There is no cure for alcoholism, according to Dr. William B. Terhune, in an article "The Rising Tide of Alcoholism."

"By the time someone has become a confirmed alcoholic," wrote Dr. Terhune, "many irreversible changes have occurred in organic functioning, body chemistry and personality; once an alcoholic, always an alcoholic."

A university must, I think, be more explicit in its stand on social issues. We should, I believe, tell teenagers—and their parents—that they should not drink. We must understand that many of them are going to do it anyway, but our general philosophy should be that alcohol can be harmful.

Students entering college often are unstable with respect to self-esteem; they lack knowledge of what to do about authority, and they may have a continuing problem of what to do about their impulses. They often have uncertainties about making new friends or getting along with the opposite sex. They may have academic problems. These pressures can build up and tempt a student to find "relief" in alcohol.

Probably the basic reasons why students drink are these:

1. Social pressure.
2. Relief of tension.
3. For sociability—to have a "good time."
4. To overcome shyness.
5. To reduce boredom.
6. Rebellion against parental or institutional authority.
7. Curiosity.
8. Promiscuity.

Obviously students do not have to drink to make friends on campus; nor is it a disgrace to stay sober and stick to one's ideals. There are other—and better—ways to overcome various pressures that build up.

I think we have an obligation to help students make choices between what is right and what is wrong. For that reason the University has regulations regarding the use and possession of alcohol. These are being revised by the Student Conduct and Welfare Committee and will be publicized soon.

Simply stated, the University's position is this: We believe the use of alcohol is detrimental to the physical, financial and educational well-being of students. The University therefore disapproves of its use.

We state our position in keeping with the authority and responsibility of our institution. In this regard we are not trying to drive drinking underground, which is no solution at all. We must recognize our responsibility—which is to discourage alcoholism—and then get on with the best methods of establishing desirable educational programs on campus to combat alcoholism.

This is one of the reasons why I hope that regular meetings with student body leaders will prove helpful—for the students themselves, through their actions and deeds, can be the exemplars of such a program and prove its worth.

(NEXT WEEK: The danger of drugs.)

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor:

As a graduate of Marshall University (far too many years ago), I am aware of and sympathetic with the enthusiasm and exuberance of students, especially during the period of fraternity initiations and football season. I am also aware of the fact that Marshall students are sufficiently mature that they will not knowingly endanger life and property when the danger has been called to their attention.

Last year several motor vehicle accidents were caused by the removal of traffic signs and danger warnings placed by the city police, traffic and street departments. Any college student who drives a car can, after a moment's contemplation, realize the great danger in removing warning devices placed for the safety of traffic. So serious was the problem that the City Council found it necessary to enact a new ordinance providing punishment for the removal of such warning devices.

Would you kindly, in an early issue of The Parthenon, caution the students not only as to the law which we hope will not have to be enforced, but also as to the danger to their classmates and other citizens which is created by removal of stop signs, smudge pots, flares and other methods used for protecting the public. With proper warning, I am sure we will have the cooperation of Marshall's student body.

We also call upon Marshall students to report to the police department any information concerning removal of such warning devices which may be done by persons other than Marshall students but, in the absence of identification, will cause unwarranted criticism of the Marshall student body.

E. HENRY BROH,
Director of Law,
City of Huntington

To The Editor:

I welcome the addition of a new staff member to The Parthenon. I cringe every time I see an attempt to gain publicity succeed with such ease as exhibited in your last issue. I am referring to the two information-packed letters written by Larry Sonis. The epistles were admittedly very well prepared and the grammar correct, but (shades of Horace Greeley) their main purpose was to add more to the Sonis image.

I am not saying the gallant reformer is not doing a good job—quite the contrary. I think he is performing a fabulous service to the student body by his constitution revision. For this I commend Larry because of his committing his time and effort. But the subjects of the two letters were not entirely pertinent or newsworthy.

I am interested in his resignation but not the myriad reasons for doing so. I am interested deeply in school spirit but I question the integrity of praising in print the fraternity he is rushing. Instead of the comments of the last issue, I think The Parthenon could print something more newsworthy. I realize I am inviting much criticism by saying what I feel. However, this is my first letter to the editor and if it is published I shall be astonished.

JACK C. KESSICK,
Huntington Junior

Please don't zlupf Sprite.
It makes plenty of noise
all by itself.

Sprite, you recall, is the soft drink that's so tart and tingling, we just couldn't keep it quiet.

Flip its lid and it really flips. Bubbling, fizzing, gurgling, hissing and carrying on all over the place.

An almost excessively lively drink. Hence, to zlupf is to err.

What is zlupping?

Zlupping is to drinking what smacking one's lips is to eating.

It's the staccato buzz you make when draining the last few deliciously tangy drops of Sprite from the bottle with a straw.

Zzzzzlllupf!

It's completely uncalled for. Frowned upon in polite society. And not appreciated on campus either.

But. If zlupping Sprite is absolutely essential to your enjoyment; if a good healthy zlupf is your idea of heaven, well...all right.

But have a heart. With a drink as noisy as Sprite, a little zlupf goes a long, long way.

SPRITE. SO TART AND TINGLING, WE JUST COULDN'T
KEEP IT QUIET.

Huntington Girl Stars In 'Half A Sixpence'

By SHERRY ALLEN
Staff Reporter

The opening of the Artists Series usually proves to be an exciting event for the students at Marshall and the citizens of Huntington. "Half a Sixpence," which runs Monday and Tuesday night should be just as exciting for most spectators.

For some, though, there will be an added attraction. Excitement will be running high among the friends of Miss Linda Rae Hager who has the leading female role. It is likely that she will have quite a few friends in the audience because the young lady who portrays Ann Ponnick in the celebrated Broadway musical is a Huntington girl!

East High Grad

She is the daughter of Mrs. Dutch Farley Hager of Huntington, who is a Marshall graduate, and Clark Hager Hager of Gallipolis, Ohio, who also attended Marshall. Linda Rae attended Lincoln Jr. High and Huntington East High School.

She went to New York immediately after graduating from high school in 1958. Surprisingly, she didn't go there expecting to sing in musicals, but to study dancing. She had studied in Huntington for years under Mrs. Francis Nester, and she had taught dancing here and in Ironton.

She had sung in the a-cappella choir in high school, but it had not been mentioned that she develop her voice.

As soon as the professionals in New York heard her sing, they suggested that she should concentrate on her singing, and she immediately began taking voice lessons.

First Major Role

The performance in "Half a Sixpence" is her first major singing role, though she has performed as a dancer on Broadway.

Her debut on Broadway was as a dancer in Meredith Wilson's "Music Man." She danced in it for a year. Since then she has appeared in "Boyfriend," "Bye Bye Birdie," and "The Sound of Music." In addition, she danced numerous times on the Ed Sullivan Show.

Mrs. Dutch Farley Hager, her mother, said that Linda Rae is excited about returning to her home town to perform for the first time.

"Linda Rae has always been serious about her career," she said. Mrs. Hager, too, is quite anxious for the show because she has never heard her daughter sing from the stage.

KARBONIT NAMED

A Beckley sophomore has been named coach of the freshman baseball team. William Karbonit was appointed coach by head coach Jack Cook. Karbonit, a physical education major, played one year with the Pittsburgh Pirates farm system. Karbonit's job will be to prepare the freshman players for the varsity. Coach Cook said Karbonit would work with the varsity during the spring practice in February.

'Sixpence' Star Comes Home

LINDA RAY HAGER, a Huntington girl, has the female lead in the first Artists Series "Half a Sixpence." The musical runs Monday and Tuesday nights.

Urban Teacher Program Begun

Applications are being accepted for next summer's Urban Teacher Preparation Program, a special fifth-year internship program for college graduates.

The program is a cooperative venture supported by a grant from the Ford Foundation. The School of Education of Syracuse University and the Syracuse City Public Schools cooperate in the 14-month internship aimed at intense preparation of college graduates who want to become teachers of deprived children and youth in urban schools.

Next summer's initial session of six weeks carries six hours of credit and trainees are assigned to classrooms with regular teachers. During the following academic year, the trainees combine study at Syracuse with a half-time internship teaching in an inner-city school in Syracuse. The second summer session is arranged for each individual trainee to meet his specific needs or interests.

Information on the program may be obtained from Ernest J. Milner, director, Urban Teacher Preparation Program, School of Education, Syracuse University, Syracuse, N. Y.

Seats Still Available

Professor Curtis Baxter, director of the Artists Series, has announced that students may still get tickets for the Tuesday performance of "Half a Sixpence."

Tickets will be distributed to all fulltime students upon presentation of their activity cards at the Keith-Albee Theatre box office tomorrow and Monday. The show starts at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Keith-Albee.

2 MU Aides Due At TV Workshop

Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, speech instructor, and Miss Maurine Miliacia, graduate assistant in the Speech Department, will represent Marshall University at the first state-wide educational television educators meeting tomorrow at West Virginia Wesleyan College.

The workshop, sponsored by the West Virginia Broadcasters Authority, will emphasize and encourage the use of radio as an educational tool. Educational broadcasters from throughout the United States will be attending the meeting.

Allen Will Preside At Dinner Meeting

A dinner meeting of the University department chairmen and academic deans will be held at 6:15 p.m. next Friday downstairs in the main dining hall.

Dr. J. Stewart Allen, vice president of academic affairs, will preside at the meeting. President Stewart H. Smith will give a brief talk before the business meeting.

Library Releases Listing Of Hours

Opening and closing hours for the James E. Morrow Library have been announced.

The library will be open Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. The hours for Friday and Saturday will be 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays from 5:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

A complete listing of the library's hours during holidays may be found on the glass door inside the library.

235 To Graduate

Two hundred thirty-five students completed academic requirements for degrees at the end of the second summer term and are eligible to receive degrees at the next commencement.

The Registrar's Office said students represented seven states and all colleges.

Finishing her academic work Magna Cum Laude was Ann N. Hager of Hamlin, W. Va., with an A.B. degree in Business Administration.

Candidates finishing Cum Laude were Linda S. Forinash, A.B., Social Studies, Huntington; Lewis A. Rife, B.B.A., Accounting, Kenova; William M. Carey, A.B., Biological Science, Kenova; Dorothy S. Pyatt, A.B., Elementary Education, Mason, W. Va.; and Priscilla B. Ori, A.B., English, Ashland, Ky.

PERL ON LEAVE

Dr. Walter H. Perl, professor of German, has been granted a year's leave of absence to conduct literary research in Europe. Dr. Perl, a faculty member at Marshall since 1948, is being supported in his research by a grant from the Claude Worthington Benedum Foundation. He is expected to return to the campus in June, 1967.

Pirates Prepare For Blast

SETTING THE mood for the Buccaneer Blast to be held from 8 to 12 p.m. tonight at the Uptowner Inn are members and dates of Lambda Chi Alpha. Pam Martin, Charleston freshman and Kenny-lee Burgess, Huntington senior, are being forced to take a walk off the gangplank by their dates, Tony McCann, Baltimore, Md., junior, and David Frost, Huntington senior.

Greenbackers Card Section Begins Season Tomorrow

The Greenbackers, Marshall's card section, will open its new year at the MU-Eastern Kentucky game tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Fairfield Stadium.

The Greenbackers was organized three years ago under the supervision of the Robe, men's leadership honorary.

"Our card section has performed dependably since its inception," co-ordinator James Wallen, Huntington senior, said. "Every student who wishes to sit in the card section will be given a list of written instructions."

Although the card section was traditionally for students with dates, the last 20 seats will be reserved for stag participants.

Robe members will be distributing tickets to the section at noon on the Wednesday preceding the home game. Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity will aid with the distribution until the Robe takes in its pledge class.

In his plea for student support, Wallen said that 50 cents is a cheap price to pay for a seat on the 50-yard line.

Off-Campus Dorm Houses 48 Men

Rowley Hall has been added as an off campus dormitory to house male students.

The dormitory located at 1522 Sixth Ave., houses 48 men, most of whom are freshmen.

Before being converted to a dormitory, the building was known as Rowley Clinic. A television was recently purchased for the dormitory.

The rules governing Rowley Hall are the same as the other men's residence halls.

Band Set For Debut At Stadium

By SHEILA MOORE
Staff Reporter

The Big Green Marching Band will make its first home appearance tomorrow night with hundreds of man-hours behind them in preparation for this performance.

Howard L. Bell, assistant professor of music, said, "A staggering amount of planning and preparatory work goes into a single half-time production. Most of the music issued is for a particular show and may never be used again."

Many of the drills and much of the music used by the band is written by Professor Bell or a member of the band faculty.

Before the 125-member band arrived, Professor Bell and his student staff had already put in much work preparing for the new season.

"Much of the praise goes to my student staff," said Professor Bell, "They are very hard working and deserve all of the credit."

When the Big Green band steps upon the field tomorrow night, everyone, including the 45 freshmen, will have had detailed instructions including how high to lift the knee, how many inches between each step, and where to place the foot upon the yard line.

All of this information and more has been figured by Professor Bell and his assistants to give the band the polished look of a "precision marching band."

Herd Opens Home Season Vs. Eastern

Maroons Expected To Feature Aerial Attack Tomorrow Night

By T. M. MURDOCK
Staff Reporter

"He may be too much for us to hold."

So said Eastern Kentucky Coach Roy Kidd about the Thundering Herd's Mickey Jackson.

"He's a fine football player," said Coach Kidd. "His body balance is about the best I've ever seen."

Coach Kidd should know, because Jackson scored four touchdowns against his Eastern Kentucky team last year. The Thundering Herd won, 28-12, at Richmond.

When asked about Jim Guice, his fine sophomore quarterback,

Jackson Continues TD Romp

By JAMES CAMPBELL
Staff Reporter

One name stands out when Marshall football fans talk shop. That name is William "Mickey" Jackson, senior tailback from Harper's Ferry. Mickey, a two-year letterman, began the 1966 season in grand style last Saturday night when he scored twice in the Herd's 27-20 victory over Morehead State University at Morehead, Ky.

Jackson's performance was a continuation of his excellent 1965 season, in which he scored 16 touchdowns and was fourth in the nation in scoring. He led the Herd with 730 yards gained on 186 attempts, an average of 3.78 yards per carry.

Jackson was also first in Marshall kickoff returns with an average of 22.5 yards and led the punt return receivers with a 14.4 yard average.

The flashy, senior back has always viewed football as a challenge. "I have always enjoyed the game," said Mickey, "and it is a real challenge to me."

Jackson also views this season as a challenge. "I know we are predicted to finish last in the MAC," he said, "but our team spirit is good and I feel that we can beat any team on our schedule."

Jackson was an all-state selection in high school and has earned various honors in the conference.

Look for No. 24 tomorrow night against Eastern Kentucky at Fairfield Stadium. He may add to his touchdown total.

Kidd's reply was: "He's a great one."

And young Guice may be just that. In last Saturday's 33-15 win over Austin Peay, Guice threw scoring strikes of 48, 69 and 17 yards and tied the Eastern Kentucky record for touchdown passes in a single game. He finished the evening with nine completions out of 14 attempts for a total of 193 yards.

Coach Kidd obviously thinks that Guice's arm will be the important factor in tomorrow night's home opener. This is because Eastern relies on mostly a passing game.

Thundering Herd Coach Charlie Snyder expressed his views on the game.

"We think that he (Guice) is a very fine young quarterback." He then added, "But of course, whenever you have a quarterback that can run as well as throw you have to be careful."

The game will begin at 8 p.m. under the new lighting system at Fairfield Stadium.

Cross Country Opens Season

The Thundering Herd cross country team will open its 1966 season tomorrow against visiting West Virginia State College at the Glenbrier Golf Club Course. The meet will begin at 10:30 a.m. EDT.

The frosh squad will also open its season in a meet with the West Virginia State frosh, immediately preceding the varsity action.

Leading coach Michael Josephs' nine-man varsity squad are senior co-captains Gary Prater and Earl Jackson. Returning lettermen include juniors Roger Dunfee and James Lowe.

Other members of the team are Bruce Smith, transfer student from Ashland Community College, and sophomores Ed Berry, Danny Hyre, Danny Hall, and Danny Radcliff.

Last year's team compiled a 2-4-1 record and finished sixth in the Mid-American Conference meet. This season's schedule includes eight meets, five home and three away, plus the conference meet Nov. 5 at University of Toledo.

Sunday Declared 'Hal Greer Day'

Former Marshall basketball star Hal Greer returns to Huntington Sunday when the Philadelphia '76'ers and the Boston Celtics meet at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Field House.

Huntington Mayor Robert O. Robertson has proclaimed Sunday "Hal Greer Day," and Gov. Hulett Smith will present Greer with an award on behalf of the state. Greer, a 1960 graduate of MU, plays for Philadelphia

Proceeds of the game will go to the Alumni Association.

Touch Football Opens Intramurals

Touch football will be the opening sport of the fall intramural athletic program, according to Dr. Robert P. Dollgener, assistant professor of physical education and director of intramural athletics.

The schedule was to begin yesterday. Copies of the schedule may be found posted in Gullickson Hall or the Student Union. Any team not formally registered may do so by contacting Dr. Dollgener in room 104 of Gullickson Hall.

Each team must pay a $1 entry fee to help pay for trophies to be awarded at the completion of the season. The captain of each team may pick up a handbook explaining intramural rules in the Intramural Office. Final 12-man team rosters are due in Dr. Dollgener's office Oct. 1.

Each team will be divided into a flight and will play a round robin tournament with the other members of its flight. The first and second place teams of each flight will play in a single elimination tournament for the championship. Games will be played on the field located between 19th and 20th Streets.

Other fall sports include volleyball, aerial darts, shuffleboard, and swimming.

The intramural program dates back to 1930 when the late "Swede" Gullickson joined the faculty as director of intramural athletics.

Flying OU Professor Teaches Course Here

By SAM NEAL
Staff Reporter

Once each week, on Monday evening, Dr. Robert F. Raymond, an Ohio University Professor, boards an O. U. Aircraft at Athens, Ohio and flies to Huntington.

The purpose of the trip is to teach Business 522 at Marshall, a graduate course in Retail Merchandising Problems. Dr. Raymond teaches from 6:30 until 9:00 then boards the plane and flies back to Athens to be ready for his next day's classes at Ohio University.

Although the "flying professor" has over 1,000 hours flying time in a four engine plane, and is night instrument rated, he cannot fly a small plane. Therefore, the Ohio University Aviation Department must not only furnish the plane, but also a pilot for the flight.

Dr. Raymond, contacted at Ohio University, said, "Transportation is a minor part in my opinion. The fact that there are 16 adults in class who feel a need for continuing their education and are working toward their masters degree is the important thing."

The professor also pointed out that he wrote the book the class is using for review, "Programmed Learning for Marketing." This, he said is a first in the field.

The course Dr. Raymond is teaching at Marshall is one of five being taught this semester under the M. B. A. program. The new program leads to the master's degree in Business Administration.

The program is designed to provide fundamental knowledge underlying business practice, development of skills in managerial problem solving and decision making, and construction of a foundation for additional learning for a changing business world.

In the M. B. A. program at Marshall, emphasis is placed on the behavioral sciences, fundamental fields of management, and the modern business environment.

Concerning Dr. Raymond's mode of transportation, the Director of Aviation at Ohio University, Mr. Francis Fuller, said that he would be using a Piper Apache, a small twin engine plane that would make the trip from Athens to Huntington in about thirty minutes which compares to nearly two hours driving time.
